100 Volunteer Workers Needed For Orientation

WITH THE APPOINTMENT of sophomore class vice-president Dave Walsh as commissioner of orientation at last week's commission meeting, plans for an enlarged program of orientation were announced.

Walsh emphasized that a large number of qualified student leaders will be needed to carry through the program successfully. Those interested in assuming positions of major responsibility were asked to apply immediately while applications for group leaders were also being received at this time.

A TOTAL OF OVER 100 students will be needed in the orientation program. The largest percentage will participate as leaders of 30-member groups of incoming freshmen.

NEW AREAS which the orientation program will take in next fall include a special group for students transferring to UMD from junior colleges and a "parents' day" of orientation. Chairmen for these two events as well as students to head up the freshman camp and training programs are being sought at this time. Application blanks are available in the office of student personnel services, Main 215.

About 15 camp counsellors will be needed in addition to the group leaders, Walsh explained. Tentative consideration is being given to the possibility of holding two camps for new students to allow a greater number of the freshmen to participate.

Facilities of the YMCA camp last fall were stretched to accommodate 92 freshmen plus 15 counsellors and faculty representatives.

REVISING THE HANDBOOK for freshmen is another project being considered. The annual picnic sponsored by the religious council, the style show with selection of the freshman princess, and a tour of the student center, scheduled for completion this spring, are included in orientation plans at this date.

Twin Groups Study Leadership In Open Seminars Next Week

OPENING SESSIONS of special leadership seminars will be held Monday evening and Tuesday morning to allow as many students as possible to participate, the student commission executive committee announced at Tuesday's commission meeting.

DUPLICATE SEMINARS will be conducted by members of the executive committee at 8 p. m. Monday and 10 a. m. Tuesday. Both meetings will be held in Main 103 although another room may be selected for future meetings when films demonstrating leadership may be shown. The twin meetings will allow local students who find evening meetings on campus difficult to attend an opportunity to participate on an equal basis.

Discussion at the initial meetings of the seminar groups will center about problems of leadership and establishing of a schedule for future seminar sessions. Welfare commissioner David Stickney, who is chairman of the student commission's executive committee, urged all interested students to attend the leadership studies. "Practical problems as well as theory will be considered," he declared.

PLANNED TO AID those now in leadership positions as well as helping students who will be active in leading campus activities next year, the seminars will provide basic and advanced study opportunity of leadership techniques.

Although UMD offers a course in "principles and procedures of leadership" (Ed. Psy. 96) the members of the executive committee expressed strong feeling that an entirely student-led seminar would prove worthwhile and popular.

"EACH CLUB organization as well as each active or inactive committee should attempt to have representatives at one of the sessions," stressed commission president Ralph Miller in announcing the initial meetings.

Other members of the executive committee are Ed Alspach, Congress of Student Organizations, Bob Burt, STATESMAN Editor; Carol Chesney, public relations; Mary Nichols, finance commissioner.

Queens and Broomball Teams

Beards, Plans Grow For Week Of Snow

Beards were sprouting on a majority of campus male students as plans for UMD's winter frolic week began to crystallize.

Deadlines for filing candidates for the Sno-Queen honors and teams to compete in Sno-Week broomball competition were announced this week by the committee headed by Jerry Hankins.

Blondes, brunettes or redheads, without beards, were eligible for entry into the race for the Queen's title. Any organizations wishing to sponsor candidates were reminded of an honor point ratio qualification of 1.0 and the requirement that girls entered in the race must have been in attendance at UMD during fall quarter.

Queen chairman Margaret Ruikka asked for written notice from groups sponsoring girls by Wednesday, Feb. 8. Her PO is 235. Glossy pictures must be received by the STATESMAN by Feb. 10 to appear in the Sno-Week Special.

Student balloting, by activity card, will take place following a Queen Convo, Feb. 21 with the revealing of the '56 Sno-Queen to take place at the annual Varsity Show, Feb. 23.

Entries from groups planning to compete in the broomball tourney slated for Feb. 22 must be received by Feb. 10, according to Hankins. This would enable Lee Benoit's committee to schedule the competition efficiently and publicize the action more effectively, he explained. Benoit's PO is 509 or he may be reached by calling MA 4-7991.

Five good acts were the hopes of Varsity Show co-chairmen Pete Thorsteinson and Ed Gillespie. Last week they announced a deadline of Feb. 1 for entries for the show, hoping to have time to plan and review thoroughly before the Feb. 23 presentation.

Sno-Week buttons will serve as admission to all activities of the winter frolic days with the exception of the ski trip to Lutsen. Over 100 students are expected to make the trip to the North Shore skiing resort to open Sno-Week festivities, Feb. 17 and 18.

Jazz Band Coming

A jazz band convo to provide light entertainment has been scheduled for Sno-Week, convocations commissioner Jerry Ylenn announced this week.

Another event planned is an invitational ski meet for Feb. 22. Arrangements for the proposed meet were not yet completed according to Dr. Ward M. Wells, men's physical education director.

Campus May Gain Service Fraternity

Past and present members of the Boy Scouts of America are urged to attend a Monday evening meeting to consider organization of a campus chapter of the national service fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega. UMD junior, David Goldberg asked that all fellows who have been associated with scouting meet in Main 107 at 7:30 p. m. Monday to consider forming such an organization.

Representatives from the local scouting office and interested University faculty members will be present to explain the function of such a fraternity according to Goldberg's announcement.

Winter Play Translator-Director Announces Cast

'Rope' Pulls Audiences From Gladiators

By KATHERINE COUGHLIN
Assistant STATESMAN Editor

"HE IS THE ONLY ROMAN playwright who could draw audiences away from the animal shows and gladiatorial combats" said David Welker of Plautus, the author of the UMD Theatre's winter production, "The Rope."

Its first performance on the UMD stage, Feb. 8, will be the premiere of a new translation written just last summer, by Welker, who is also director of the production. The play will run through Feb. 11, with curtain time at 8:20 p. m. in Main auditorium.

WELKER DESCRIBED the plot as "a romantic, somewhat improbable, story about two beautiful heroines in the clutches of a cruel villain." UMD's two beautiful heroines will be sophomore Barbara Thompson and freshman Maxine Connell with Plesidippus, the comedy's handsome athletic hero, portrayed by Nick Pappas, a sophomore.

OTHER MAJOR ROLES will be taken by Bill Lokke as Daemones, the father of the heroine, and John Lokke as the cruel villain, Labrax, described by Welker as "the kind of character audiences love to hiss."

Gene Gruba is cast as Trachalio, a servant of the hero, and Mary Montague as Ptolemaia, a priestess of Venus. The cast also includes Charles Cadigan, John Grinden, Lowell Eckberg, Donald Sliter, James Harney, Jon McCarty, Tom Mead, Leonard Golen, and Jerry Music.

ALTHOUGH WRITTEN nearly 200 years before the birth of Christ, "The Rope" is spiced with comments on life, manners and morals that apply as freshly today as when Plautus penned them, Welker says. "No one will recognize himself in the play, but everyone is sure to find that a good many of his friends have been pictured," he added.

TRANSLATOR WELKER is also co-author, with his wife, of "The Woman's Touch", a world-broadcast radio play starring Gene Lockhart and Verna Felton in 1950 and again in 1952. He has also directed about 30 plays, including the 1954 production of Sartre's "Les Mains Sales" for the University of Minnesota French department in Minneapolis, and has wide and varied experience in radio and television work.

Besides translating Plautus' play, Welker has included original songs and incidental music which will appear in the UMD production.

Major Problems Reviewed Today

Investigation of the urgent need for men's housing at UMD will be considered by the student welfare committee at a meeting this afternoon.

Commissioner David Stickney has announced that plans for a new registration procedure to begin next quarter will be considered also. He called attention to the work of Phil Mosher and Robert J. Johnson in formulating a pattern for more efficient registration and tally procedures.

Meeting in the cafeteria Ranch Room from 2 to 4 p. m., the committee will also give further study to problems of the cafeteria.

French And Three R's Mix In Lab School - Tres Bien!

"Parlez-vous francais?" In English this means, "Do you speak French?" To the lab school students, the answer is a smiling "Oui." For a half hour every day, they forsake English and struggle with the intricacies of the language of the diplomats.

Teaching French in the lab school began in the winter quarter of 1954, through the efforts of Dr. Lily Salz, UMD languages professor. The class is voluntary and every student must have their parents permission to participate. A child may be removed from class at any time if the parents wish, but the support of the project has been surprising.

"Les professeurs francais" this year are Katherine Ure, senior French major, and Harry Kahn, adult special student. They are finding it very interesting work.

Said Dr. Salz: "They are doing a terrific job. A person must consider and realize that it is a difficult one, for there is little behind them to go by. They use their own plans and procedures."

Dr. Salz also mentioned Mr. Jurkovitch and Mr. Peterson, who teach the sixth and seventh grades, Mr. Verrill, lab school principal and eighth grade teacher, and Mr. Plumb, head of the Education Department, whose cooperation has been most appreciated.

Because of many pupils and few teachers, there are two alternating groups of students. The classes are carried on orally most of the time, for the stress is put on conversation. Student teachers Ure and Kahn use flash cards, pronunciation posters, and various other methods to put ideas across. The students seem to enjoy the class and participate gladly.

It is felt that early oral teaching of the French will give the students a proper attitude for language study. "They are gaining a feeling for it and ground work for future years is being built," Miss Salz explained.

For the last few years, the Record Enrollment

Varied Population Gives UMD Cosmopolitan Flavor

After a look in the address book, anyone would be willing to admit that UMD is a school with a cosmopolitan flavor. Represented in last quarter's record enrollment of 1,925 were twenty states and eight countries.

Ninety-six per cent of the students were Minnesota residents, with sixty-one per cent naming Duluth as their home. The remaining thirty-five per cent were divided primarily among eight towns in the area. Cloquet claimed ninety-one and Proctor, forty. Two Harbors, Eveleth, Chisholm, Virginia, Hibbing and Grand Rapids followed, each with twenty or more. In addition, 146 Minnesota towns were represented, stretching from the Canadian border to Southern Minnesota.

Wisconsin led the out-of-staters with twenty-five, of which fourteen crossed the bridge from Superior. Eighteen other states had from one to eight students enrolled. These included Washington, Oregon, California, Texas, New Mexico, Montana, North Dakota, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Missouri, Louisiana, Vermont, Massachusetts, Maine and Virginia.

Making up a very small one per cent of the total enrollment were the sixteen international students. Our neighbors to the north numbered nine. Besides the hockey five from Saskatchewan, there were three from Ontario and one from British Columbia. The remaining seven were from Columbia, Indochina, Fiji Islands, Nigeria, Thailand and Japan.

The business office reports a near-record winter quarter enrollment also, with a drop of only three per cent. UMD is growing rapidly, and its enrollment of out-of-state and international students testifies to its worth.

Academy Of Science Offers Scholarship

The Minnesota Academy of Science, through its scholarship program, is endeavoring to help meet America's increasing need for scientists and physicists of high calibre. During the two years of its existence, 27 Minnesota high school graduates have received assistance. One of the scholarship winners is now attending UMD.

Based on need and academic promise, selections are made from applicants who desire to go into some phase of science and mathematics.

Attending UMD under a Minnesota Academy of Science scholarship is Daniel Gustafson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Gustafson, 1002 West First street, Duluth.

A graduate of Duluth East high school in 1955, Gustafson was active in student council work, debate and discussion. He is majoring in civil engineering.

popularity of teaching a language in elementary schools has been growing. Starting in 1922, Cleveland was the first U. S. city to engage in this practice. Much publicity concerning the idea is being given in education and language journals. It is regarded as the up-and-coming thing.

two: how can you expect any trade at all if you have nothing to offer and charge too much for it?

Sir, if there were any real problem up there your staff would have offered some answers and explanations instead of beating around the bush. There is no place else to eat and it is the duty of the administration of this university to see that the students are properly taken care of in this area . . . the situation is far from satisfactory. There is far more that could be said . . . but maybe this little bit turned in the right direction will get somebody hot on finding a solution. Thank!

"Is this a beard which I see before me?" . . . Or as momma said, "Where, oh where has my little boy gone?" Petit Pierre to momma . . . "And momma, here we are approaching la semaine de la neige, or snow week and everyone is growing whiskers on the chin and for the concealment of the lip under the nose. Also this city will be soon one hundred years young . . . it is funny that a city so young in years should seem so old in comparison with ancient Paris. But here at the university almost everyone is trying to raise that which usually is cursed at its coming . . . everyone but the professors . . . some have enough troubles maintaining the foliage covering their heads, and in truth there is more hope for concealment of the chin than the head . . . but it would seem wise to prove that they had the ability to encourage growth in places other than their students."

A quote from "Man and Superman" by Shaw . . . "The only man who behaved sensibly was my tailor: he took my measure anew every time he saw me, whilst all the rest went on with their old measurements and expected them to fit me." We like it too-

And now, 12:45 and the inkwell is dry . . . that ain't apathy. its spite (thanx, EKK) Bedtime, so thirty!

Education Via Convertable?

From the Christian Science Monitor

The "drive-in" trend has gone a long way toward making it possible for Americans to live without getting out of their cars.

There are drive-in restaurants, drive-in theaters, drive-in banks, curbside mailboxes and drive-in laundries, either for clothes or the car itself.

The drive-in service is still capable of added possibilities. If everyone drove a sports car perhaps there would be supermarkets in which one could pick up canned soups and ready mixes from his bucket seat instead of pushing a wire cart.

But we know a young chap who will not be convinced the ultimate has arrived until he can drive into one end of the college campus in his convertible and out the other with an education.

Darland Is Chairman Of Brotherhood Week

Mrs. Edward J. Anderson, Dr. William Cohen, and KDAL's Bill Krueger, co-chairmen of the Duluth Round Table, National Conference of Christians and Jews, announced recently the appointment of UMD Provost Dr. Raymond W. Darland as local Brotherhood Week chairman for 1956.

In accepting the honor, Dr. Darland stressed the importance of the educational program of the National Conference and further stated: "When it is achieved, true brotherhood will have as its greatest strength a simple quality — kindness. So long as man lives, differences will arise; human nature is synonymous with divergent opinions and dispositions. But if each of us will be guided in his relations with others by kindness and the qualities that arise from kindness, healthy differences can occur without igniting resentment and hate.

"If kindness is to become a universal quality, it must begin with each of us. The conquest over suspicion, selfishness, fear, bigotry will not be easy. But sincerely felt and sincerely practiced, kindness can be the deciding factor in our quest for brotherhood; it can help prove whether brotherhood is, after all, the myth or the miracle of humanity."

Brotherhood Week will be observed Feb. 19 to 26 this year.

The Pickwick Papers

By Gene Gruba

This is Monday and this afternoon Grundoon and we slid up to the airport to have a gander at that jet that spilled . . . quite a mess! After we played tourist and inspected the Air National Guard installation and saw miny miny (thanx George) of the propless planes . . . shades of ROTC and Steve Canyon . . . we'd swap our horse and dog and all for just one little ride in one of those machines! During the course of the visit we had the pleasure of meeting one Major Hed . . . the CO . . . who was having a wee bit of a lunch before climbing into one of those beauties and whisking off to the Twin Cities . . . The Major, who was one heck of a fine Joe said that in twenty minutes he was off . . . and fifteen minutes later would be dropping his gear on the Minneapolis strip . . . fifteen minutes . . . fifteen minutes . . . fifteen minutes . . . tennis anyone!

Thanx to you . . . Ferde's Frolic was a success to the tune of $220 and a quart or two of blood. There were donations from the fraternities and various organizations on campus. The dance was a ball with the music donated by the "Northwinds" and "The Blue-Notes" and the "Four Escorts" . . . the best part of the whole deal was that Ferde never knew . . . until the check was handed to him. This is another fine example of what this campus can do when it decides to pull together . . . thanx again!

Gruba

No cafeteria confidential this week . . . you know what the situation is . . . there's no need for facts in print to tell you if your stomach and pocket-book are satisfied . . . instead an open letter to Dr. Darland:

Here are a few miscellaneous and personal thoughts on the cafeteria situation . . . the arguments offered to the Tribune reporter, Walter Eldot, by members of your staff were slightly on the hysterical side . . . "Prices also are checked regularly against local restaurant menus and in most cases are well below what the other are charging." Point one: this statement is not true and you can find this out by simply eating out in a few of these other places . . . point two: the cafeteria is supposedly a non-profit organization and is not in competition with the local eat shops . . . consequently the prices should be well below what the others charge . . . point three: if the local shops' menus were on a par with UMD's they would rapidly be out of patrons . . . our cafeteria offers an A la Carte menu, by name only. There is only one meal offered there . . . the only thing A la Carte about it is you pay separately for each item!

"The cafeteria employs eight full time workers, including Mrs. Schroeder and five part-time workers." . . . "only about 400 students can be considered 'potential trade'." Point one: too much overhead . . . since when does it take 13 people to feed 400? Point

Sno-Week Chairman Hankins Leads Busy, Full Campus Life

By MARION HANSON

After several fruitless phone calls, I met this year's Sno-Week chairman, Jerry Hankins, in the hall in Old Main and informed him that I was supposed to interview him for the Statesman. A little while later, we were settled in the Statesman office in Washburn and I started asking questions.

Jerry's a senior, majoring in geology and minoring in chemistry. He transferred here in his junior year from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which he was attending with the aid of a Regional Scholarship he had won in his senior year of high school. He's formerly from Grove Port, Ohio, where he graduated from high school in 1952 with scholastic honors.

"I started at MIT with the intention of majoring in physics," he reports, "but after a few physics and math courses, I decided to change to something easier." Geology is easy?

In the two years he has been attending UMD, Jerry has been a member of the United Youth Fellowship (he was vice-president in his junior year), a member of Beta Phi Kappa, and this year he helped with the Religion-in-Life Week. His chief interests are swimming, music and scoutwork.

After graduation, he plans to volunteer for the draft, and when he's out of the service he'd like to go on to graduate school.

German Articles Now On Display

The unique display of authentic German articles now on exhibit in the library building is a project of UMD's modern language department, according to Ivan Nylander, a department head and assistant professor or languages.

He added that the display was made possible by Miss Hilda Schumacher, health service nurse, who loaned all the objects exhibited.

On display are German costumes, embroidery, wood carvings, hand-blown glass, and china. An article of special interest is a printed table cloth picturing the traditional German wedding procession.

The exhibit can be seen in the display case on the library's second floor.

Grant, Loan Fund Opened

Initial use of the student commission's organization loan and grant fund was made last week with a payment of $38 to the freshman class.

Final approval for the fund was given by University Pres. J. L. Morrill Dec. 30, 1955 and deposit of a $500 check from commission funds was made by UMD Provost R. W. Darland Jan. 10. The fund had been approved by the commission last May 24.

As requests from recognized student organizations which bank their funds through the UMD business office are received by the commission, they will be individually considered, and approved or rejected. Loans are made to "promote, extend or improve organized student life through all-school social or educational projects."

The grant of $38 paid to the freshman class has been used to cover a loss at the recent class-sponsored "Mytery Mixer."

Approval by the student commission executive committee, a majority of the commission members and a signature of the student activities director complete the process of a fund request, Mary Nichols, finance secretary, explained. All applications must be presented in writing.

Vets Seek Queen

Vets' Club president Bill Gemuenden looked out at the 30 fellows present at a recent meeting and urged expansion of the organization's ranks. "There are 400 veterans on campus who could and should be a part of this group," he stated.

Rapidly reorganizing, after a period of inactivity, the club has laid plans to sponsor a Sno-Queen candidate.

Hameline Seeks Talent

All Minnesota colleges which participate in the MIAC conference have been asked by Hamline University's Winter Homecoming chairmen to enter a group to represent them in a talent show slated for Feb. 17.

A travelling trophy will be awarded to the college group which is chosen as the winner at the show.

... And ... Now To Muse ...

By JOHN HILL

"Flowers in June give us Memories for December."

Little Louis to Petit Pierre: "It is all very well for mischievous writers to maintain that we cannot serve God and Mammon; granted that it is not easy, Pierre, but nothing that is worth doing ever is easy. Easy or difficult, possible or impossible, not only has the thing got to be done, but it is exactly in doing it that the whole duty of man consists. And when the righteous man turneth away from his righteousness that he hath committed and doeth that which is neither quite lawful nor quite right, he will generally be found to have gained in amiability what he has lost in holiness."

TO JOIN OR NOT TO JOIN: 'tis the question. The "other writer" for this paper has at times expressed a somewhat negative view on special fraternities and sororities; I don't question the point that this side of the question exists, but I do say that there is also a positive side (and personally believe the good outweighs the bad.)

For most important, you can expect the frat or sorority to be only as good as you yourself want it to be, you can and should expect to get out of it exactly what you want to put into it; if you are apathetic or passive, you can expect the same of any organization; if, however, you want to work and have some good ideas to express, your organization will be all the better for it.

There ought also to exist a reciprocal relationship; you should be able to gain from the group as a whole and, in turn, be able to give something of yourself to the group.

There may be aspects of the group which you don't like; this in itself shouldn't stop you from joining, for if these undesirable aspects do exist (and are not merely personal prejudices), it is for you to change them. To get down to basic facts I questioned the six presidents of the three social fraternities and three social sororities here on campus and here in part is a record of what they have done, are doing, or are planning (in alphabetical order; so as not to discriminate).

Connie Hermel (Delta Beta Gamma) pointed out,

"After the first apathy meeting they decided the best way to get students interested in one another and the school, to acquire a 'unity' and 'sense of belonging,' was through a competitive and cooperative organization, which could offer its time and effort wherever needed. She is also in favor of beginning an "inter-sorority council" which, on a collective basis, would work for the benefit of all.

Marilew Latto (Sigma Phi Kappa),

"We are bound together to achieve a common goal, to meet and know girls of college level; we are not a select group in the sense of discrimination, for we strive to include in our ranks anyone who can contribute to and gain from a mutual sisterhood."

John Mitchell (Sigma Tau Kappa), 1/4

"As the center of the social life we seek to develop the social graces, the art of good living, and the development of courtesy and kindness; companionship is also highly stressed in the training of every frat member."

Both Walt Musolf (Gamma Theta Phi and Billy Shimek (Beta Phi Kappa) stressed,

"A responsibility toward the college and the community;" the service projects such as painting and planting sod for Camp Miller and the "Petey" benefit, plus the pep-bands and cheer-sheets are very practical and worthwhile services; the thinking of these frats goes beyond self."

Nina Spallacci (Sigma Psi Gamma) pointed out,

"A sorority is more than a club in that it goes beyond mere meetings; the "meeting and being with" (be it a "pot-luck" supper or benefit), the "gaining of lasting friendships" and the "never losing contact with our alumni" are attributes that make it so. One of the many benefit-projects occurred at Christmas when they went to the local welfare agency, received the names of twenty-three needy children, and gave them a party of treats, games, and gifts (this was beside their donated time and money for the "Petey" project); this party was so appreciated and successful that a similar one is going to be held in the spring, "to show the children that we don't think of them only at Christmas."

As I said, it's what you make it!

Life is one long process of getting tired.

BULLDOG TAILS

by Romano

Following are the rules and regulations of the Intra-mural Basketball tournament. A number of students have questioned us as to eligibilities and other points so we received the information from UMD's physical director, Dr. Ward Wells.

Eligible Players

1. UMD students in good health interested in competition in basketball between teams of equal ability.

Ineligible individuals

1. Students who have earned a letter in basketball at UMD.

2. Students who have participated in varsity, second team, or freshman games as students at UMD.

3. Individuals who endanger other players through rough (intentional) play.

4. Individuals who are guilty of unsportsmanship conduct toward officials or other players.

A round robin will be played in each league. At the end of the round robin the stronger teams will be drawn into a single elimination tournament to determine a school champion. This does not necessarily mean teams must finish in the first division to reach the elimination tournament.

Each team should have T-shirts dyed in the colors indicated for the first game if at all possible.

Team One—red, Team Two—blue, Team Three—orange, Team Four—purple, Team Five—green, Team Six—brown, Team Seven—gym uniforms outside, Team Eight—gym uniforms inside out.

Each team will be ready to play within five minutes of the time indicated on the schedule or forfeit the game. The team captain should check with his players to be certain a team will be on hand. Notify Ward M. Wells if your team cannot play so that the other team will not have to travel up here and wait until game time. Arrangements can thus be made for playing the game at another time. Everyone will be happier if we can work this out in this manner.

The games will have six minute quarters due to the uncertain condition of some of the participants. Each team is entitled to one time out per quarter. It is suggested that these be used more of the time.

A player who has collected five fouls may remain in the game if his disqualification would mean a team playing with only four players. There will be an additional foul shot for the fifth and each succeeding foul thereafter.

Otherwise regulation basketball rules will apply to these games.

UMD To Renew Cage War Tomorrow Against Superior State Yellowjackets

By DON ROMANO

BASKETBALL

Conference Scoring

	G	Pts	Avg
Rossi	9	144	16.
Monson	9	118	13.1
McKillop	9	116	12.9
Intihar	9	96	10.7
Bergstedt	9	66	7.3
Veech	9	46	5.1
Ekroot	9	30	3.3
Keiski	8	22	2.7
Sampson	8	9	1.1

UMD will send their high flying Bulldogs into action tomorrow against the Wisconsin State Yellowjackets of Superior at the field-house. Game time is 8 p. m.

The game, originally listed for Monday and later rescheduled for Saturday, will see Vince Mortorelli bring a 14 man squad across the bay in an attempt to stop the spirited Bulldogs and avenge a 97-84 loss suffered in their last visit. Last season's meeting in Superior resulted in a 88-79 win for the Yellowjackets.

The Bulldogs, following a record breaking 103-88 victory over

Concordia are in top shape, physically and mentally, for tomorrow night's contest. Doug Rossi's injured hand has given him some trouble in practices early this week, but he should be in fine condition come Saturday.

George 'Duke' Nelson, 6-6 forward, Tom Larson, 6-5 center, and Don Bellile, have been coach Mortorelli's starting forward wall in recent contests, with Ron Schultz, and Ken Jardine at guards. The rest of the team has seen plenty of action with Bernard Tomczak, Darell Coons, Garry Bloomquist, Don Jorgenson, and Bob Thomas slated for front line duty. Ray Birch, Glenn Stuve, Ben Seigley and Bob Wiinemaki are guard alternates.

Superior, a member of the Wisconsin College Conference, has a 5-1 record in conference play, losing only to league leading Eau Claire.

The Yellowjackets claim an 8-4 overall record, with St. Cloud a UMD victim among their conquerors.

Superior, home of UMD's head coach Norm Olson during his tenure at Superior Central high school, will floor a comparatively new team. The only returning starter is guard Ron Schultz, who bothered the Bulldogs with his accurate jump shots last season and continues to improve. Schultz is a constant double figure scorer. The Superior squad has good height in the front line with newcomer Larson a strong scorer. Balance is the keynote of the attack.

Coach Olson, expressing satisfaction over the team's recent showing, will continue to use the same starting lineup; Bob Monson and Jim Intihar at guards, with Doug Rossi, Harold Bergstedt and Jack McKillop at the forward slots.

Bulldogs Dump Concordia Setting 103 Point Record

Captain Doug Rossi and center Jack McKillop's combined point totals accounted for slightly more than half of the basketball Bulldog's record 103 markers the past Monday night as the hapless Concordia Cobbers, who absorbed their thirty-ninth consecutive MIAC loss, were witness.

Ahead 41-38 at the intermission, the Bulldog's poured 62 points through the mesh as McKillop garnered 21 of his total in the final twenty minutes. Rossi, driving for close-in buckets with authority, finished up with 25.

Behind many times in the first half by from seven to nine points the Bulldog's overtook the Cobbers with 3:06 remaining when Jim Intihar scored a couple making it 37-36. Seconds later Concordia's Arne Porkkonen hit from the outside to push his club back on top but McKillop and Rossi contributed successive buckets apiece to earn the three point lead at the half.

Kept honest by the Cober's hot-shooting forward Bill Quenette after the intermission the Bulldog's jumped to a twelve point bulge with about nine minutes left in the contest on three quick tallies by Intihar and the victory was assured. Quenette, who had he crowd gasping through the entire tassel with his near flawless shooting from the field, tied McKillop for the night's scoring honors also picking up 28.

Lund, Goethel Comment On Future Of UMD Hockey

By RALPH ROMANO

Our views on UMD hockey drew two very different editorial comments from the columns of the Sunday News-Tribune. Reider Lund, executive sports editor of the publication, aimed his comments at the citizens of Duluth chiding them for not being prepared for the emergence of the Bulldogs into a top hockey power. His subject was the need for an auditorium. He agreed with us basically in the fact that the Bulldogs were becoming too strong for the MIAC and that advance to the Western Conference faced many problems. He was a little more pessimistic about the problems than we had been but by no means did he belittle the ability of our squad.

Arno Goethel, a friend and schoolmate, had something very different to say. He termed the hope for Western Conference as "ridiculous", made some wierd comparison with the basketball squads of Hamline and Gustavus, termed the Bulldogs as at the peak of a cycle and compared the hockey teams dominance with that of Gustavus in the cage sport. He also doubted the ice team's abilities.

As though anticipating such a "ridiculous" attack the pucksters walloped a Michigan Tech team that is the varsity of the future, leaving all those who have an understanding of the game with the knowledge that it would not take much more strength to put the Bulldogs in a class with the Western Conference clubs.

Not only were Arno's comments torn to shreds by the pucksters, but the basketball squad disputing the comment of the dominance of Gustavus, even before it appeared in print, pulled an upset and dumped the Gusties.

When Arno returns from hiding, we say keep up the good work and we will be in the Western Conference in no time.

UMD Upsets Tech Twice In Penalty Filled Ice Tilts

UMD's underdog Bulldogs upset predictions and silenced critics with a resounding 9-2 victory over a highly touted Michigan Tech Junior Varsity, at the Curling club last weekend. The rout was preceded by a hard fought 3-2 win the previous eve and gave some indication as to where the Bulldogs sit in the hockey picture of the North country.

Harvey Flaman, stocky team captain, led the scoring parade collecting three first period goals and adding another in the third to personally account for the winning margin in Saturday's tilt. The tallies gave the Regina lad 20 for the season and a new UMD record, surpassing Al Peterson's 18 of 1953.

The first game, played before 1100 screaming fans, was probably the most interesting tilt of the season. Down two goals in the second period, the Bulldogs gained strength and rallied to turn the tide. Elmer Schwartz, freshman wing, turned in a beautiful display of stickhandling to fool three defenders and the goaltender late in the second period for UMD's first tally. Third period goals by Arliss Wright and Harvey Flaman gave the Bulldogs the 3-2 decision.

John Bymark, UMD's burly defenseman, added a sidelight to the game when, after a Michigan defender threw a punch he lowered the boom. Each received a major penalty, but the visitors kept their distance from Bymark in future action. The Techmen proved themselves short on temper and received a misconduct penalty to cool the offenders.

A level-headed band of UMD pucksters let Tech do the complaining as they did the scoring in the 9-2 rout before 1926 fans Saturday.

Michigan Tech managed to hold the Bulldogs scoreless in the second period after they had tallied four times in the first, but Pleban's crew roared back to score five in the third and put the flowers on the Tech grave. Tech did themselves one better in the misconduct department collecting two 10 minute rests. Ray Merrifield and Jack Dockeray were the offenders.

The precision and class of the UMD offense overshadowed the brilliant play of netminder Jerry Klesinger. "Kleis", a goaltender, who is as good as he has to be, was a solid wall behind an improved UMD defense.

Monson, UMD Tip Gustavus To 82-75

By BOB PROULX

Bob Monson's 28 points provided the UMD Bulldogs with the spark that ignited the upset fires and swept over Gustavus Adolphus last Saturday by the score of 82-75. The loss, second straight for the Gusties, came on their own floor and reduced their lead over second place St. Mary's to one half game. For UMD, it was only their third triumph over the Gusties in the eleven games played since the innauguration of the series.

The Bulldogs, slightly out-ranked in height, gave the boys from St. Peter a run for their money right from the opening tip. With expert ball handling and very accurate shooting, Norm Olson's boys controlled almost all of the first half of the contest, and hung on to a slim 41-40 lead when the horn sounded ending this first period of play.

Gustavus, highly favored to win and seeking their third straight MIAC title, was bothered all night by freshman Monson. He threw in 9 field goals and connected on 10 of 12 shots from the foul line to pace the upsetting Bulldogs. He was assisted in the assault by Jack McKillop's 20 points and great defensive work on 6-7 Gustie forward Bill Patterson. He held Patterson to 16 points. 14 of them coming in the first half.

One big factor in the win for the Bulldogs was that they out-rebounded the taller Gusties on both the offensive and defensive boards. The rebounding work-horse was 6-5 freshman Harold Bergstedt who kept the ball out of the clutches of Patterson and 6-8 center Jim Springer.

The biggest lead the Bulldogs held over the Gusties was 12 points—shortly after the midpoint of the second half. Gustavus ventured a rally but could get no closer than four points, and the UMDites went on to win by seven.

In addition to the 48 points scored on the combined efforts of Monson and McKillop, captain Doug Rossi and Jim Intihar furthered the winning cause by scoring 14 points each.

Springer and Patterson led Gustavus in scoring with 23 and 16 points respectively.

Sisto Out For Season

Alex Sisto, 'mighty mite' of the UMD iceways, a victim of a broken bone in his hand, stowed away number 5 early this season.

The speedster from Duluth's West End suffered the disability on the first play of the Friday night Michigan Tech encounter. On a sweep around a Tech defender on the right side, the little center received a glancing blow that threw him off stride and broke the bone.

Shaking it off as a bruise, Sisto continued to operate in his familiar spot between linemates Don Bourdeau and Frank Johnson. He did so well that no one realized the injury was serious. Study of x-rays after the tilt showed the extent of the injury. The verdict—six to eight weeks of recuperation.

Sisto came to UMD two seasons ago to start a new era in hockey. It was the strong freshman crop of the 1953-54 season that gave the Bulldogs their first MIAC championship. Sisto and line mate Al Peterson were instrumental in the victory. When

The following season saw even greater honors for the Duluthian. In a poll conducted by the STATESMAN, he was chosen as the outstanding puckster in the MIAC. Once again he finished second in scoring.

Fans await the return of this popular performer.

Says Sisto at a recent practice, "This watching is for the birds."

NUMBER FIVE RETIRED FOR SEASON—

Alex Sisto, star center on the UMD hockey team, hangs up his jersey after receiving word that his injured left wrist will keep him out of action for the rest of the season. Alex broke a bone in his wrist at the beginning of Friday night's game against the Michigan Tech junior varsity.

PHOTOGRAPHERS PLAN

R. M. Chelgren has been named to fill the post of faculty advisor to the UMD Foto Club as was announced this week by Joe Baan, club president. Chelgren, a former professional photographer, will replace Dr. Harold Hayes.

The Foto Club is planning a series of films to be shown the first Wednesday of each month at 4 p. m. in Main. The series, which is being supplied by the Eastman Kodak company, will begin Feb. 1 with the showing of the films "Snap that Picture" and "How to Develop a Negative." Anyone interested is invited to attend. The titles of the films to be shown are posted on the Foto Club bulletin board in the first floor hall, Main.

The club is also planning to offer portrait photography instruction sometime in the near future to all those interested.

JOURNALISTS PLEDGE

A recent supper meeting of Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalism fraternity, was the scene of presentation of pledge pins (linotype slugs) to twelve pledge members.

President Katherine Coughlin announced that the actual initiation of pledges would not take place until the annual dinner held in spring quarter.

Members of the organization are selected for two years of outstanding contributions to campus publications and must be at least sophomores. STATESMAN, CHRONICLE and HUMANIST staff members are eligible for Pi Delta Epsilon membership.

A major project of the group this year has been the publishing of a sports program sold at basketball and hockey games. The chapter historian, Ralph Romano, has been in charge of this project. All funds raised will be directed toward sponsoring the publications dinner and eventually may result in the formation of a scholarship fund, according to plans.
